2. About TeaCoin

We can divide the crypto market into three major categories:

- Crypto Coins: These are coins that we use as a transfer of value or a medium of exchange. The main purpose of a crypto coin is to function as digital cash (also called digital currency). This category of coins possesses its own native blockchain. Examples of crypto coins include Bitcoin (BTC), Monero (XMR), and Bitcoin Cash (BCH).
- Protocol Coins: Coins that are native to a protocol blockchain that possesses additional functionalities for the development of decentralized applications (dApps) and the use of smart contract technology. As with crypto coins, protocol coins have their own native blockchain.
- Tokens: Tokens are digital assets that are built on top of another blockchain protocol. Tokens do not possess their own blockchain. Over 90% of cryptocurrencies in the market are classified as tokens since they leverage existing public blockchain networks to issue their own coins.

TeaCoin is a ERC-20 Token built on The Binance Smart Chain \(BSC\), which is a blockchain protocol built by one of the largest centralized exchanges in crypto, Binance, that operates in parallel with the Binance Chain, with limited supply, for the purpose of entering into the blockchain ecosystem.

Since Tea Coin is a ERC -20 Token it has to follow a standard for Fungible Tokens, in other words, they have a property that makes each Token be exactly the same (in type and value) of another Token. For example, an ERC-20 Token acts just like the ETH, meaning that 1 Token is and will always be equal to all the other Tokens.

TeaCoin is capped to 1BN in total supply and is circulating 500mn for a limited time.
